Rationale/Background

The Auxiliary and General Services (AGS) unit plays a critical role in maintaining the functionality and safety of Mindoro State University. This unit is responsible for various tasks including ground improvement, repairs, and maintenance of buildings and other physical plants and facilities.

However, the AGS unit's ability to effectively fulfill its duties is currently hampered by the lack of essential construction and fabrication equipment. Relying on external contractors for repairs and maintenance can be costly, time-consuming, and has limited control. Frequent outsourcing can significantly strain the university's budget. Also, the reliance on external contractors often leads to delays in addressing repair needs, potentially impacting campus operations and safety. In addition, outsourcing reduces the university's control over the quality and timeliness of repairs.

To address these challenges, we propose the acquisition of essential construction and fabrication equipment for the AGS unit. This investment will empower AGS to handle a wider range of repairs and maintenance tasks in-house, reducing dependence on external contractors and associated costs. Having readily available equipment will allow for prompt response times to repair needs, minimizing disruptions to campus operations. The university will also have greater control over the quality of repairs performed by its own trained personnel. Additionally, investing in equipment will necessitate training staff in its proper use and maintenance, fostering a more skilled and versatile AGS unit.

The acquisition of construction and fabrication equipment is a strategic investment that will significantly enhance the efficiency, cost-effectiveness, and quality of maintenance services provided by the AGS unit at MinSU-Calapan City Campus. This will ultimately contribute to a safer, more functional, and well-maintained campus environment for students, faculty, and staff.

The proposed project entitled "PURCHASING OF MACHINERY EQUIPMENTT FOR THE AUXILIARY AND GENERAL SERVICES OF MINDORO STATE UNIVERSITY-CALAPAN CITY CAMPUS" will significantly enhance operational efficiency in the ground improvement, repair, and maintenance activities of the Auxiliary and General Services Unit in MCC.
