I. RATIONALE

In the evolving landscape of higher education, research publication has become a defining factor in an institution's academic standing and societal impact. Faculty members are expected not only to conduct rigorous research but also to contribute to the global repository of knowledge through peer-reviewed publications. However, despite the wealth of research being conducted, many promising studies do not progress to publication due to challenges such as manuscript refinement, journal selection, and addressing reviewer comments. Without structured guidance and dedicated time for manuscript enhancement, valuable research remains unpublished, limiting its potential contribution to academic and societal development. Recognizing this gap, Mindoro State University (MinsU) continues to strengthen its commitment to fostering a strong research culture by providing avenues for faculty to enhance their scholarly work. As part of this effort, the Panday-Dunong: University In-House Review on March 6-7, 2025, will serve as a platform for faculty researchers to present their completed papers and receive critical feedback from experts. While this review process is instrumental in identifying areas for improvement, it is only the first step in the journey toward publication. The next crucial phase is ensuring that these research outputs meet the standards of reputable journals and proceed to successful publication.

To support faculty in this endeavor, Sulong-Dunong: An Intensive Training Workshop for Research Publication will be held on March 11-14, 2025—immediately following Panday-Dunong—to provide an intensive, hands-on approach to manuscript refinement and journal submission. This targeted workshop will be exclusive to faculty members with completed research papers, ensuring a highly focused and productive training experience.

This initiative is made even more significant through the partnership with the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) - MIMAROPA Region, which will provide expert resource persons to guide faculty researchers throughout the publication process. With the support of CHED-MIMAROPA, participants will receive high-quality mentorship, tailored feedback, and practical strategies from seasoned researchers and journal editors, further increasing the likelihood of successful publication.

This training is not merely a workshop, but a strategic intervention designed to bridge the gap between research completion and scholarly dissemination. Participants will engage in expert-led manuscript clinics, structured peer-review sessions, discussions on journal selection, and practical guidance on addressing reviewer comments and submission protocols. By adopting a results-oriented approach, Sulong-Dunong will empower faculty members with the skills, confidence, and support necessary to navigate the publication process successfully.

By facilitating the transition from research completion to publication, this workshop directly contributes to MinSU's mission of advancing knowledge, strengthening research productivity, and enhancing institutional reputation. Increasing faculty publication rates not only elevates the university's academic standing but also fosters greater research collaboration, innovation, and real-world impact.

Through Sulong-Dunong, MinSU, in partnership with CHED-MIMAROPA, affirms its commitment to research excellence by transforming knowledge into impact—one publication at a time.

II. OBJECTIVES

A. General Objective

To enhance the research publication capabilities of faculty members by providing intensive training on manuscript refinement, journal selection, and submission processes, thereby increasing the number of research publications in reputable peer-reviewed journals.

B. Specific Objectives

1. To assist faculty members in improving the quality of their research manuscripts based on feedback from the Panday-Dunong In-House Review and expert consultations.
2. To provide hands-on guidance on academic writing, formatting, referencing, and responding to journal reviewer comments.
3. To equip participants with knowledge on identifying suitable journals, understanding journal indexing (e.g., Scopus, Web of Science, CHED-recognized journals), and avoiding predatory publishers.
4. To reinforce awareness of ethical publication practices, plagiarism prevention, authorship guidelines, and open-access policies.
5. To develop faculty members' competencies in preparing cover letters, handling peer review feedback, and ensuring successful manuscript submission.
6. To foster a community of scholars who can collaborate on research projects, co-author publications, and engage in research mentorship.
7. To establish a culture of continuous publication by integrating research output development into faculty professional growth plans.

III. TRAINING DESCRIPTION

A. Activity Content

The Sulung-Dunong: An Intensive Training Workshop for Research Publication is a capacity-building initiative designed to equip faculty members with essential skills and strategies for successfully publishing their research in reputable peer-reviewed journals. Scheduled on March 11-14, 2025, immediately following the Panday-Dunong: University In-House Review (March 6-7, 2025), this workshop aims to provide an avenue for researchers to refine, enhance, and finalize their manuscripts for submission. Recognizing the importance of academic publishing in advancing institutional research productivity, this training will be conducted in partnership with the Commission on Higher Education – MIMAROPA Region (CHED-MIMAROPA), which will provide expert resource persons to facilitate the sessions.

To promote collaborative research and academic excellence across institutions, the training will welcome participants not only from MinSU but also from Occidental Mindoro and other invited universities. This initiative ensures that faculty members who have completed their research papers and undergone initial critique during Panday-Dunong receive the necessary guidance and technical support to navigate the publication process. The workshop will be highly interactive and output-based, combining expert-led discussions, manuscript enhancement clinics, and hands-on journal submission activities. Key sessions will cover crucial topics such as identifying reputable journals, avoiding predatory publishers, understanding research ethics and plagiarism policies, strengthening academic writing, and responding to peer reviewers' comments. Participants will engage in one-on-one manuscript consultations, peer review exercises, and guided submission workshops, allowing them to apply learnings directly to their research papers.

By the end of the training, participants are expected to finalize and submit their research manuscripts to indexed journals, strengthen their understanding of the publication process, and contribute to the growing research output of their respective institutions. This initiative plays a vital role in fostering a stronger culture of academic publication within MIMAROPA and beyond, reinforcing MinSU's commitment to research excellence. Through this workshop, the university aims to empower faculty members with the knowledge and confidence to publish impactful research, positioning MinSU and its partner institutions as key contributors to scholarly discourse at both national and international levels.

B. Resource Experts (c/o) CHED MIMAROPA

The Sulung-Dunong: An Intensive Training Workshop for Research Publication will be privileged to host esteemed experts in research and academic publishing, sponsored by CHED-MIMAROPA as part of their MIMAROPA INSIGHTS-Mindoro program. This initiative, scheduled to take place at Mindoro State University, Calapan Campus on March 11-14, 2025, aims to address the challenges in establishing a strong research culture and increasing publication output in the MIMAROPA Region, which encompasses the provinces of Oriental Mindoro and Occidental Mindoro. With approximately 80-100 faculty members expected to attend, this initiative seeks to empower researchers with the necessary tools, strategies, and mentorship to successfully publish their work in reputable journals.

To ensure the highest quality of training, renowned experts in research and publication have been invited as resource experts, each bringing extensive experience in academic writing, peer review, and scholarly publishing. The distinguished speakers include:

1. Dr. Mark Preston Lopez (Professor V)
2. Dr. Jun S. Camara (Professor V)
3. Dr. Thelma Domingo-Palaoag (Full Professor)
4. Dr. Erlinda C. Palaganas (Professor Emeritus XII / University Scientist).

Their expertise and mentorship will be instrumental in guiding faculty members through the complexities of academic publishing, from manuscript enhancement to journal submission and responding to reviewers' feedback. With the support of CHED-MIMAROPA, this event underscores a regional commitment to fostering a culture of research excellence and scholarly impact in MIMAROPA's academic institutions.
